Saturday, November 3rd 9 to 12:
Seasons of Growth

Learn about permaculture and native techniques for season growing. Gardening offers us a chance to connect to the land, the plants and to each other. Growing in a sustainable and self-sufficient way means working with rather than against nature. Permaculture encourages consciously designed landscapes that mimic the patterns and relationships found in the local environment. We will discuss the simplicity and effectiveness of native traditional methods such as the three sisters planting and waffle gardening.
